Name Model

Inquiry Question/Path How does social networking affect peer relationships?

location in the source: Source TI #4-P3 co and P4 be ma ho Source #4- P5-6 So Source sh #4- P7-8 "T co ex Source #4- P7-8 "T co ex	ecord details, ideas, or information that I find in my urces that help me answer my inquiry questions: he idea of frienship is more omplicated with social media sites ecause every connection is a "friend" no latter what kind of relationship you ave with them. ocial Networking encourages people to hare too much information about thier ersonal lives There is so much information to onsume that we rarely spend any time xploring any of it in great depth".	I explain the reason why I think they are important, and write personal comments: This is true with facebook. There are some ways to change your settings so that there are different groups of people like "close friends", "friends". Its like real life where you know lots of people, but you don't have the same relationship with everyone. There are lots of people who share every detail of their day in their status updates and tweets. The amount of information on social networking sites can be overwhelming. And it's hard to turn it off because its tempting to know everything that
#4-P3 co and P4 be ma ha Source #4- P5-6 So Source sh #4- P7-8 "T co ex Source #5 P3-4 "I	omplicated with social media sites ecause every connection is a "friend" no latter what kind of relationship you ave with them. ocial Networking encourages people to hare too much information about thier ersonal lives There is so much information to onsume that we rarely spend any time	some ways to change your settings so that there are different groups of people like "close friends", "friends". Its like real life where you know lots of people, but you don't have the same relationship with everyone. There are lots of people who share every detail of their day in their status updates and tweets. The amount of information on social networking sites can be overwhelming. And it's hard to turn it off because its tempting to know everything that
and P4 be ma ha Source #4- P5-6 Sa Source sh #4- P7-8 "T ca ex Source #5 P3-4 "I fr	ecause every connection is a "friend" no patter what kind of relationship you ave with them. ocial Networking encourages people to hare too much information about thier ersonal lives There is so much information to onsume that we rarely spend any time	that there are different groups of people like "close friends", "friends". Its like real life where you know lots of people, but you don't have the same relationship with everyone. There are lots of people who share every detail of their day in their status updates and tweets. The amount of information on social networking sites can be overwhelming. And it's hard to turn it off because its tempting to know everything that Source #4- P5-6 Source #4- P7-8 "T co ex Source #5 P3-4 "I	atter what kind of relationship you ave with them. ocial Networking encourages people to hare too much information about thier ersonal lives There is so much information to onsume that we rarely spend any time	people like "close friends", "friends". Its like real life where you know lots of people, but you don't have the same relationship with everyone. There are lots of people who share every detail of their day in their status updates and tweets. The amount of information on social networking sites can be overwhelming. And it's hard to turn it off because its tempting to know everything that
#4- P5-6 So Source sh #4- pe P7-8 "T co e> Source #5 P3-4 "I fr	hare too much information about thier ersonal lives There is so much information to onsume that we rarely spend any time	There are lots of people who share every detail of their day in their status updates and tweets. The amount of information on social networking sites can be overwhelming. And it's hard to turn it off because its tempting to know everything that
P5-6 So Source sh #4- pe P7-8 "T co e> Source #5 P3-4 "I fr	hare too much information about thier ersonal lives There is so much information to onsume that we rarely spend any time	every detail of their day in their status updates and tweets. The amount of information on social networking sites can be overwhelming. And it's hard to turn it off because its tempting to know everything that
Source sh #4- pe P7-8 "T co e> Source #5 P3-4 "I fr	hare too much information about thier ersonal lives There is so much information to onsume that we rarely spend any time	status updates and tweets. The amount of information on social networking sites can be overwhelming. And it's hard to turn it off because its tempting to know everything that
#4- pe P7-8 "T cc e> Source #5 P3-4 "I fr	ersonal lives There is so much information to onsume that we rarely spend any time	The amount of information on social networking sites can be overwhelming. And it's hard to turn it off because its tempting to know everything that
cc e> Source #5 P3-4 "I fr	onsume that we rarely spend any time	networking sites can be overwhelming. And it's hard to turn it off because its tempting to know everything that
#5 P3-4 "I fr		ia opino on #5 P3-4 "I fr		is going on.
fr	It has never been easier to make	This detail disagrees with the riends than it is right now, mainly hanks to social networking sites.	information from source #2. It gives another point of view.
S	ocial networking sites allow us to	Being able to communicate quickly with people far away and for free is a huge benefit of social networking. I can
Source	ommunicate more quickly and stay in ouch with each other:	stay in touch with my friends and family wherever I am by using social networking sites on phones.
ODELL		FAKING NOTES